More about this course

If you are fed up of bringing expensive plants home from the garden centre full of enthusiasm and expectation only to find them dwindling away in your garden and looking decidedly peaky then this is the day course for you.

Come and discover why nearly all silver leaved plants enjoy full sun. Once you are aware of some basic ideas about how and why plants adapt to their environments you will be confident about getting the right plant in the right place.

The array of plants offered will feel much less daunting and you can plan what is right for your garden in advance and go shopping with a plan of action.

We will also be recommending lots of useful reference books that you can dip into to help you find the very best plants for your garden.

We will take a look at how knowing a little about Latin names can be extremely helpful when it comes to understanding where a plant is from and what kinds of conditions it enjoys in the garden.

This is an excellent follow-on course to our Planning and Planting Borders Day Course, which deals with the aesthetics of planting and how to draw up accurate planting plans.

Tea, coffee and a delicious lunch are included in your day. Please call ahead if you have any special dietary requirements and we will always try to accommodate you.

We pride ourselves in offering quality learning in a fun, relaxed and friendly atmosphere. Come and escape to our rural location for the day and learn something new or brush up existing knowledge.

Please bring your wellies if you would like to come on the garden tour during your course.

The course starts at 10am and finishes at 4pm.

All of our courses make great gifts and we have lovely gift vouchers for you to present to the lucky recipient.
